

VIRTUAL EVENT STUDIO

Offering turn-key production services for your next virtual or hybrid event, the Ronald Reagan Building and International Trade Center has partnered with our expert technology team, Projection, to set up a full-service, on site studio. Our studio offers a safe and fully customizable space to pre-record presentations as well as to assist with live webinar and livestream production.

Pre-recording Management

When doing a live event, we all know there's no guarantee something won't go wrong. But when doing a virtual event, we get to come as close as possible – by pre-recording some of the “live” content. Our studio offers capabilities to produce, capture, and edit sessions that become part of a larger presentation program.

Webinar and Live Stream Production

For many virtual events, webinars are a main component. They allow for the live presentation of content along with interaction with attendees, through tools like chat and Q & A. Our virtual studio also has ample bandwidth and redundancy to ensure a successful live broadcast.

Hybrid Meeting Design and Execution

As we begin to get back to gathering in person, events will look much different than before the pandemic. With some presenters and attendees gathering in person while others join virtually, planning and execution will be more important than ever. Our studio offers a versatile option that will be a valuable asset to reach your audience.

What we offer:

- Webinar producers and production assistants to run live webinars.
- Studio-quality equipment to record, stream and edit live and pre-recorded content.
- High-end graphics packages including opening video, lower thirds, title animations and custom transitions.
- Creation of technical show flow.
- Rehearsal and virtual stage management.
- Recordings.
